Campus Care: Tailored Medical Support for UPR Students

UPR is committed to providing all students enrolling at its campuses with affordable access to education, especially those facing financial hardships or economic vulnerability. To minimize socioeconomic inequalities and support the uninterrupted pursuit of university education, UPR offers subsidies for food and lodging accommodations.

1) Accessibility and Affordability of Food at University campus

In the process of developing our menus and determining food prices, we have taken into account the socio-economic status of both university students and staff. The goal is to ensure that a vast majority of university students have access to affordable, well-balanced, and nutritious meals at all our food outlets. Our cafeterias consistently provide daily hot meals to students throughout the year, and the cost of each food item is kept below one dollar. In comparison to market prices, we go the extra mile by offering a substantial 50% discount on every food item available at various university cafeterias. This initiative is aimed at making quality food options more financially accessible to students, contributing to their overall well-being and ensuring that they have convenient access to nourishing meals on campus.
